Biographical Note

Dr. Paul Leonard McKay was Millikin University president from 1957-1971. He was born in Laclede, Illinois and graduated from Greenville College in 1935. He received simultaneously a Ph.D. in education from New York University and a bachelor of divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary in 1945. In 1944, McKay was ordained as a minister by the Free Methodist Church. Two years after this, McKay transferred to the Presbyterian faith. He served as an associate pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York and then served as a minister for twelve years at the First Presbyterian Church in Akron, Ohio. McKay resigned his position in Akron to become the youngest president in Millikin's history, at 39 years old. During his time as Millikin president, several new buildings were developed and completed, including Kirkland Fine Arts Center, Griswold Physical Education Center, the University Center, Mills Hall, Walker Hall, Blackburn Hall, Hessler Hall, and a new power plant. In addition to reorganizing Millikin's governing boards and creating a template for Millikin's future growth, McKay was involved in other areas of community enrichment. He was chairman of the Illinois Committee on Higher Education, chairman of the board of the Associated Colleges of Illinois for two years, president of the Presbyterian College Union, chairman of the board of the Central States College Association, and a regent of the Lincoln Academy of Illinois. McKay also served for nine years as a trustee of Decatur Memorial Hospital and as a trustee of the Decatur Association of Commerce. McKay received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Lincoln University and a Distinguished Educator Award from Loyola University. He died on February 2, 1971, at the age of 53.
